

Fund Analyst, Helsinki, Copenhagen or Stockholm

Deadline:

08-11-2026

Would you like to join Urban Partners' Fund Management Team, as our next Fund Analyst?

Contact person:

Sarah Meyer

About the role

We are looking for two Fund Analysts with a start date of January 2027. One for our Helsinki office and one for either our Copenhagen office or our Stockholm office. You will join the Fund Management Support team, part of the CIO Office, and work closely with our fund managers. You will be their sparring partner and take ownership of fund-level analysis, reporting and follow-through, increasing the capacity of the fund management leadership. The work includes close cooperation with multiple stakeholders, such as portfolio management, fund finance and investor relations.

Job area:

CIO Office

Position type:

Full time

Area:

Real Estate Equity

Key Responsibilities

Forecast and track fund performance:

- Build and maintain fund-level forecasts of returns, cash flows, leverage and liquidity.
- Run scenario and sensitivity analyses on how market changes and investment decisions affect fund performance.
- Track delivery of fund business plans against targets and flag deviations early.

Prepare reporting and decision material:

- Contribute to investor reporting and fund update materials.
- Prepare analysis and decision material for internal stakeholders.

Provide input to investment and allocation decisions from fund perspective:

- Assess the risks and opportunities market trends and economic development means for the funds.
- Assess how new investment opportunities fit the fund's allocation, portfolio and strategy, supported by industry and market research.
- Provide input on exits, including timing and the impact on fund performance.

Coordinate and improve ways of working:

- Work together across internal teams and follow through to deadlines.
- Contribute to the development of the team's systems, processes and reporting.
- Support more than one fund, with priorities shifting over time.

Your Experience & Skills

- University degree in finance, economics, business, real estate, engineering or another quantitative field.
- 1-3 years of professional or internship experience from an analytically demanding environment, such as financial advisory, management consulting, investment banking, or controlling.
- Solid financial and accounting knowledge and a sound understanding of investments.
- Strong analytical and quantitative problem-solving skills.
- Advanced Excel and PowerPoint skills.
- Fluent English. Other Nordic languages are an advantage.

Your Character

- Diligent and detail-oriented, able to manage several tasks and deadlines.
- Proactive and persistent in securing input and moving tasks forward.
- Diplomatic with colleagues at all levels, constructive on direct feedback, and able to navigate competing priorities.
- High integrity and a genuine willingness to learn.
- Comfortable with workload peaks around key reporting periods.
